“ Uncle Tony, you were one of a kind. We will never forget the stories and pictures my dad would share with us about growing up at 560 West Ave. One of our favorites was the one with you and my dad flexing your muscles but the best pictures were the ones of you and your three brothers. We will never forget your humor and your kind heart. We love you and we will miss you. God bless the entire Lopardi family. Patrick, Barbara and family

“ My brother Tony and I became very close to one another while I was in the Air Force. He always wanted me to become a somebody while I was servicing and would tell me "Listen you, you better make mom and dad proud of you and of course me." I tried, and during the time that I could call him for advice and talk he would always say "hang in there better days are coming" After I retired I made it a point to visit Tony and stayed with him at his apartment for eight days. We talked from morning to night about the old days. He never changed his ways, he was the big brother and he would give me more advice. And then say "Do you understand" Yes, I would say..After I left we would talk to each other at least every other day, He would call me or I would call him . His conversation with me was always brief but he always ended his conversation with "God Bless You". Tony you will always be my big brother and I will not forget the guidance you gave me. I'll miss those calls but I will never forget you. God grant you peace

“ To my sweet Uncle from your "Beckalini". Since I was a little girl every time I saw you you put a big smile on my face and always made me laugh. Throughout the years you then had the same impact on my daughter and son. I LOVED spending time with you, talking to you on the phone, taking selfies together, going on walks around your complex, having a beer with you and hearing your funny stories from when you were younger. Especially the story on how your brother Joe, my father would warm your bed up for you before you went to bed at night so you didn't have to lay in a cold bed. I love you very much and you will always and forever have a special place in my heart. I will miss you like you couldn't imagine but will always thank the good Lord above for all the times we had together. I just wish we could of had more. Rest in peace. You are now with your loved ones you have missed for many years. I love you Uncle Tony.
