“ Goodbyes are never easy. Rich is my Godfather. He has always been so kind and giving to me. Him and Celina lived next door to my parents on Ashley street. He used to tell me stories of how when he baby sat me he didn't have a crib so I slept in his dresser drawer and a story of how I was a baby and pulled my mother's hair for a dollar. laughs

He was the one who drove my mother to the hospital while she was in labor with me.

I can't thank him enough. I will miss him and our random phone calls about talking about music and the same old nothing is new.

For ages I always asked him to play bass for me and he never would. I always wanted us to jam and have some fun. Now he is playing bass is heaven and the thunder today is his bass amp cranked to 10.

*I love you buddy.
May you rest easy now.
Your God son Mark Mutka.*
