“ Bob was kind, loved to grow vegetables in his garden, enjoyed cooking & feeding friends and was a brainiac! He didn't care to write things down - he just filed things in his memory and retrieved them as needed! Mathematical genius inclinations led him to teach and then work for many international companies creating computer software. When he tired of working for corporations he became an independent consultant and upon retirement, a writer. I edited most of his books, as my talents are more language and linguistic in nature. He was so fond of music, particularly jazz and piano. I was fortunate as his baby sister to attend with him many concerts, including some @ Tanglewood in the Berkshires with our brother, Ken as well as WNY presentations by Arlo Guthrie, David Sanborn (his favorite sac player,) and my all time fav, Bruce Hornsby, Lou & I enjoyed attending Jazz @ the Albright summer concerts with Bob. He enjoyed singing with St. Joseph University Hgts contemporary choir.

He was a punster and one favorite activity was for us to acknowledge how much some people resembled famous personages...Bob loved a good laugh, a great Broadway play, a gourmet meal and fighting for justice. Left wing peace mongering and advocating for the environment, animals and the poor were importsnt to him.

I was fortunate to have him in my life, and pray he is resting in peace in heaven, free from cancer & pain, at last.

Thank you for caring for Annie Rose petunia nose...Hope to see you two up there someday! 🥹
