“ Unfortunately, in the past 20 years I didn't get to know much about my father and Unfortunately he did not get to know his grandchildren before passing. I am Tim's only child and just learned of his passing. But I do have a lot of childhood memories with him.

“ Tim is and was my friend. We first met in 2009 in front of St. Louis church and then went to Spot coffee to discuss his work history. It took a while of back and forth messaging to finally meet Tim, but I was impressed by his work experience, electrical background and knowledge of technology. It was a short meeting, but I saw the value and a certain quality in Tim and thought a person like this would be an asset to our work environment .Fast forward over the 15 years Tim proved himself worthy in many ways. He was likable, generous, honest and thought well of his fellow people. He loved his getaways and adventures, and it was sad to see his health decline starting with his open heart surgery in 2024. His pain was great and often to the point of tears and depression. Was this the Tim I knew? It was February 19, 2024, the night before he passed when I last saw Tim lying in bed at a local nursing home. He lay peaceful breathing with a nasal cannula in deep silent comfort from his much administered pain meds. He lay waiting for God to lift up his soul and take him to his final trip home to heaven. Enjoy your new home in heaven Tim.....you earned it and it's a wonderful place, and where they call it Paradise! Love ya Tim! Your friend Dennis Cannon
